Christy Lockhart

Christy has worked as a School Social Worker for the Rowan-Salisbury School System in multiple schools and as a licensed clinical social worker associate at Nazareth Child and Family connection providing outpatient services for adolescents. She has vast experience working in public schools as well as experience in child advocacy, program development, crisis intervention, and community engagement.

Christy holds a master's degree in social work from the University of Southern California, and a bachelor's in social work from the University of North Carolina, Charlotte. She is passionate about working in high poverty schools as a trainer and a coach advocating for environments where students feel physically and emotionally safe so they are better able to focus on learning.
