

COLOR OF EDUCATION

Ronda Taylor Bullock, PhD

Ronda Taylor Bullock, who is originally from Goldston, NC, earned her doctorate in 2018 at UNC Chapel Hill in the Policy, Leadership, and School Improvement Program. Her research interests are critical race theory, critical whiteness studies, white children's racial identity construction, and anti-racism. Prior to entering her doctoral program, Dr. Taylor Bullock taught English for almost ten years at Hillside High School in Durham, NC, where she now resides.

Dr. Taylor Bullock is the co-founder and Lead Curator of we are, which stands for working to extend anti-racist education. She is the wife of Dr. Daniel Kelvin Bullock and mother of son Zion and daughter Zaire.